COURSE FACILITATORS

MR DEREK WOOD CBE QC

Derek Wood has been a member of the set now known as Falcon Chambers since 1965. He has practised in all areas of property litigation since that date and appeared in many leading cases. He was appointed a Queen's Counsel in 1978 and has sat as a Recorder and Deputy High Court Judge. He is a Fellow of the Chartered Institute of Arbitrators and a Chartered Arbitrator. He is a Bencher of the Middle Temple and was Treasurer in 2006. He has served as chairman or member of various Government advisory committees on property, planning, transport and rating and has been awarded the CBE for services to property law. He was Principal of St Hugh's College Oxford from 1991 to 2002 and is an Honorary Fellow of St Hugh's College and University College Oxford. MR RICHARD SAMUEL FCIARB BARRISTER

Richard was called to the Bar in 1996. For many years his practice involved him being in court every day of the week: on criminal and civil matters. Five years ago – some time after his practice had become purely commercial and his appearances in court and international arbitrations became longer and less frequent – he looked for a means of keeping his own advocacy match-fit. He found that opportunity training young barristers through his Inn of Court, the Middle Temple in London. He enjoyed the training because it forced him to think hard about his own advocacy and to keep improving it.

Richard found he learned most when invited to train lawyers from other jurisdictions. He set up the International Advocacy Academy (IAA) with Derek Wood QC to take the experience of English barristers to lawyers around the world for them to adapt to their particular circumstances and to the international arbitration arena in general.

Richard's practice at the Bar has for many years been general commercial litigation and arbitration, with an emphasis on directors' duties, offshore trusts and international trade. It includes employment, insolvency and professional negligence. He has acted in international arbitrations under the DIFC-LCIA, LCIA, RSA and UNCITRAL Rules.

He began his career as a Chartered Quantity Surveyor in the UK and practised in that field in Asia also for some time.
